" Ibn doesn't like people talking about his affairs without his consent. "
--- Ibn Shaun

Known far and wide for his fervent championing of the art of healing, the physician Ibn Shaun was quite possibly one of the most famous healers in the vast history of Sosaria.

His advances in the healing arts single handedly transformed the slow and arduous process of healing, into a fast and effective means of combat survival. These newfound methods also allowed the successful curing of poisons, and much later, due to advances on Ibn's studies, the resurrection of ghosts and spirits.

Known not only for his championing of the medical sciences, Ibn was also famous for his sense of humor. During the times when bounties and bounty hunters were rampant, Ibn jokingly placed a 100,000 gold bounty on his own head, a sum equal to tens of millions of gold in the current economy, placing himself as the most wanted man in Britannia, without actually committing a crime!

Ibn Shaun was also prominently known as a member of the Atlantic Mage Tower, and much later, immortalized in the comics of the artist Ra as a sidekick to the necromancer Isobel.

Alongside his association with AMT, Ibn was also a Moonglow native. His physicians office was located near the Moonglow moongate, often serving and healing the wounded whenever they were in need.

While long parted from the realm, Ibn's legacy is now contained within every bandage, and every healing spell used within Britannia.
